

PART 139 Simulated Aircraft Accident Exercise

The exercise will be taking place May 4th-6th, 2009 at dusk. To integrate the preparedness and response of multi agency faculties responding to an emergency as set forth by Federal Aviation Regulations Part 139 Rules and Regulations. The focus of the exercise is to provide an emergency drill that will exercise and evaluate the capabilities of the Bowling Green-Warren County Regional Airport and its tenant faculties to effectively handle an aircraft disaster. The activities are designed to implement the Airport's Emergency Response Plan and emphasize on being conducive to integrating the response and recovery efforts with participating Mutual Aid Agencies. The Bowling Green Fire Department, Bowling Green Police Department, Medical Center Ambulance, Air Evac Lifeteam, BWG Airport Operations and Co-Mar Aviation will simulate a real-time response for an aircraft accident on the Airport.

Kentucky Aviation Teachers Institutes 2009*Teachers Grades 6-12

The Kentucky Department of Aviation believes that education is the key to an individual's success, industry health, and local and state economies. We are dedicated to bringing aviation into the classroom of every educational institution in the commonwealth. Evidence supports that students do better in math and science when shown a practical and interesting application for these concepts. An aircraft in flight is a laboratory packed with dynamic mathematical and physical science applications. Bottom line, what student is not fascinated with airplanes and aviation!

The Bowling Green-Warren County Regional Airport's Manager's Office will be closed on Monday, May 25, 2009 in observance of Memorial Day. We would like to Mother's Day became an official Holiday under Woodrow Wilson in 1941. It is always observed the second Sunday in May. This year's Mother's Day is on May 10th. We would like to remind everyone to wish their mother a Happy Mothers Day.

Dr. Keith Bryson

On March 23, 2009 Dr. Keith Bryson was killed in a plane crash in Woodford, KY. He was a native of Spruce Pine, N.C., a small town nestled in the Blue Ridge mountains. He received a Bachelor of Arts degree for Appalachian State University in Boone, N.C. Dr. Bryson graduated from Bowman Gray School of Medicine at Wake Forest University in Winston-Salem, N.C. Internship and residence, in the specialty of obstetrics and gynecology, were both completed at Erlanger Medical Center in Chattanooga, Tenn. Following residency, Dr. Bryson trained under and worked with world-renowned leaders in infertility, laser and minimally invasive surgery techniques. Dr. Bryson was a leader in the development of the surgical techniques laparoscopic appendectomy. He was the first American physician to present as well as the first to publish about this surgery. The presentation was at an international medical conference in Washington, D.C. He had numerous articles published in the Clinical Laser monthly, Laparoscope Clinical Update, Telescopic Surgery Health and the Journal of Monthly, Laparoscope Clinical Update, Telescopic Surgery Health and The Journal of Gynecologic Surgery. Dr. Bryson was a Fellow of the American Society for Laser Medicine and Surgery. He had served as clinical instructor at Vanderbilt University in Nashville; adjunct professor at Western Kentucky University; clinical consultant for major laser and surgical instrument manufactures; faculty and clinical adviser for the training and development of laser surgery centers in numerous hospitals across the United States; and faculty at more than 114 medical courses to teach general surgeons, urologists, orthopedic surgeons and gynecologists how to perform laser surgery procedures. In addition to his passion for medicine, Dr. Bryson loved classic automobiles, travel and was an accomplished scuba diver, snow skier and pilot here on the Bowling Green-Warren County Regional Airport. Dr. Bryson will be missed by all in the community. Please keep his family in your thoughts and prayers.
